Navigating the Abyss: Accessing Addiction Treatment

presented by:

Lori Ryland, Ph.D., LP, CAADC, CCS, BCBA-D
Chief Clinical Officer | Pinnacle Treatment Centers

Addictive disorders affect the lives of millions of Americans today. Despite the prevalence and pervasive toll addiction can take on the lives of individuals and their families, there continues to be a large treatment gap in the United States. This web conference will cover what you need to know to access addiction treatment including how addiction affects the brain, how stage of change and motivation affect prognosis, and how to maximize treatment using stage-matched interventions. Several behavior therapies used in other behavioral disorders have been demonstrated to be effective for addiction treatment including Dialectical Behavior Therapy, Acceptance and Commitment Therapy, and Motivational Interviewing/Motivational Enhancement Therapy. In addition, medication-assisted treatment has been demonstrated to be safe, cost-effective, reduce the risk of overdose, and improve several areas of functioning. Selecting appropriate treatment based on individual assessment and working with payers to report and document medical necessity and least restrictive environment is a key role in navigating addiction treatment.
